

Accessing Archives Pilot Project Application

Overview

The purpose of the Accessing Archives Pilot Project is to provide an opportunity for cultural institutions (historical societies, museums, libraries, etc.) on Long Island to increase the accessibility of their collections. Due to the limited resources, the work the Project Archivist can do will be limited to the scope of materials agreed upon from the application. To request the service, the LILRC member institution must complete the LILRC Accessing Archives Pilot Project Application.

Applicants should provide as much information as possible on the type of service being requested to ensure the desired outcome can be met. Sending photographs of the workspace and the materials are helpful. The Project Archivist will be available for up to six weeks per project (approximately 210 hours) and will be paid by LILRC for their time.

The Project Archivist will only work on materials agreed upon in the application. LILRC will supply computer equipment and pay the travel expenses of the Project Archivist for the duration of the project.

Scope of Work

Examples of the types of projects that may be requested include:

- Arranging and describing materials according to current archival standards. This could include some or all of the following:
 - Cataloging and re-housing a small textile collection
 - Cataloging the contents of a small historic house
 - Accessioning and processing a backlog of donated materials
 - Digitizing account books, diaries, a small manuscript collection
- Assisting in developing strategic plans and essential archival policies and procedures
- Executing the re-housing of archival materials
- Developing digitization projects, including scanning materials and creation of metadata

The LILRC Digitization and Archives Coordinator will visit the applicant's location to determine if the project is feasible and that the Project Archivist has a safe environment in which to perform the anticipated duties of the project.

Examples of the type of work that may not be requested include:

- Conducting an inventory of the entire archival collections
- Performing any appraisals for the items in the collection
- Providing reference services to the collections
- Providing tours of historic facilities
- Processing materials outside of the scope of the agreement
- Providing conservation services beyond basic rehousing and environmental stabilization

Applicants also have the ability to upload documents that might be helpful in assisting the LILRC staff, including the Digitization and Archives Coordinator, and with advice from the Committee for the Preservation of Local History.
